

The World Allergy Organization (WAO) is pleased to announce World Allergy Week 7-13 April 2019!

We dedicate World Allergy Week 2019 to raising awareness of the global problem of food allergy. The quality of life of children and families is impacted by fear of accidental exposures and serious or fatal reaction to foods.

There is no cure yet, and avoidance of food allergens is the only approved treatment along with rescue therapy in case of emergency. Proper diagnosis and therapeutic interventions are essential for disease management, safety and improved quality of life.

A briefing on food allergy is available here.

I hope you will join us in this outreach effort by telling others about the campaign and participating locally in educational and informational activities on food allergy.
